Mr. and Mrs. Ma't. Wood of Beaver Mines visited Mr. and Mrs. Joe Atkinson over the week end.

SEE A SPECIALIST

The ancient oracle who declared that "a man is wise who admits that he knows nothing," is quoted by National Health authorities at Ottawa in a warning against self-treatment.

Ignorance isn't weakness, it's wisdom, point out the doctors, and this applies particularly in such a high specialized field as medicine. It is foolhardy for those without proper qualifications to attempt medical treatment. Yet, that is just what many people do when they neglect to obtain expert advice for ailments, and practice self-medication.

STRIKE TOTALS DWINDLE

At the beginning of July, reports The Financial Post, there were but 11 strikes involving barely 1,000 workers across the length and breadth of Canada.

At the beginning of July last year, there were 36 strikes involving 70,600 workers.

During the first half of this year there were 107 stoppages affecting 45,361 workers. All told they lost 1.5 mill on man days of work, (85% due to the Nova Scotia coal strike).

During the same period last year there were 127 strikes which affected 84,011 workers at a cost of 1.6 million working days.

That in a nutshell is the story of the improvement in industrial relations since the tidal wave of labor unrest swept across the nation last year: 70,000 on strike a year ago; 1,000 today.

SLAVONIC FESTIVAL TO HAVE PROMINENT GUESTS ATTEND

The Slavonic Festival Committee has been informed that Representatives of the U. S. S. R. and Poland will attend the festival on Sat., Aug. 9th at Blaimore.

It is expected that they will personally give greetings to the festival and will give a few words of encouragement to the people who are interested in further developing cultural and sports activity in the Pass.

Honorary patrons of the Festival include His Worship, Mayor F. Abousafy, Mayor B. J. Hawkey and Mayor E. Williams, T. Uphill, M. L. A. of B. C. Rev. W. H. Irwin and representatives of the various Slavonic organizations that are sponsoring and supporting the festival.

The varied and very rich programme for the festival has been well prepared by the choir, dancers, orchestra and bandmen of the West Canadian Collieries Band, all of whom have been working very hard for the past five months in order to give cultural activities a big boost throughout the Pass.

Arrangements have been completed to have movies taken of the highlights of the festival and the Festival parade which will be at Blaimore on Saturday, Aug. 9th at 6 p.m.

As tickets for the Blaimore Programme have been selling very rapidly the committee has decided to present a matinee for children on Sat., Aug. 9th at 1 p.m. at the Blaimore arena, in order to accommodate all people who wish to see the performance.

The public is advised to avail themselves of reservations for the Saturday Evening performance at Blaimore Arena as there are only a small number now available at the Coleman Pharmacy, M. Kubic and Credit, Jewelers at Blaimore.

NOTICE TO TRAP SHOOTERS

There will be a meet at the range on Wednesday, August 13th, at six p.m.

POWER TO EARN

Federal health authorities have adopted the slogan "Health is earning power" in many posters and other types of health education material. They point out that, no matter how Canadians earn their daily bread, success will come easier if there is health behind it.

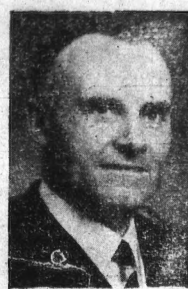

Health provides the power to enable people to earn, they remind the Canadian public, and conservation of health is, therefore, important to the attainment of any goal.

The Blaimore Young Peoples Association held a wienery roast at Grove's Nest Lake on Tuesday last. Around 40 persons were in attendance.

Three old cronies were spending their 84th consecutive day in the over-stuffed chairs of the Union League club library. They were discussing their idea of the perfect way to die.

One member, aged 82, said he hoped that he would die peacefully in his sleep. The second, aged 87, said he'd like to crash in a jet plane that was establishing a new world's record for speed. "It would sort of make me feel that I was keeping up with things to the very last minute," he explained.

The third member, just over 90, sighed gently and said: "You boys haven't got the right idea at all. I would like to be shot by a jealous husband."

Dr. John H. Garden, B.A., B.D., Principal of Mount Royal College, Calgary, will be in Blaimore at the Greenhill Hotel from 6 to 8 p.m. Monday, August 11.

The purpose of his visit is to meet students and their parents who are interested in obtaining further information regarding the courses offered at Mount Royal College. First year University, High School and Commercial courses are all available at this old established Southern Alberta residential school.

Mount Royal, being affiliated with the University of Alberta as a junior college, offers young people of Southern Alberta an opportunity of taking their first year university within a reasonable distance of their homes.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY

THE KING TROUT

By MATTHEW F. CHRISTOPHER

HE held the black, slender fishpole in his left hand and the minnow pail in the other, and walked down the narrow path through the woods with his chest sticking out naturally and his strong, sturdy legs taking long, even steps.

That was much the same. But that was only half. His dad wasn't tagging behind like he used to. Kim got thinking about it, but his heart was too small to hold the load he thought and it burst into soft, tender tears that wouldn't get past his throat.

He swallowed a couple of times and tried to face this new situation bravely, challengingly. It was awful lonely. Every little noise was a magnified sound to his young, alert ears. The soft rustle of the leaves pushed against each other by the wind; the scratchy note of a squirrel cracking a nut with its sharp teeth; the loud, happy trill of a vireo.

All that he had heard before. But mingling with those familiar sounds had been his dad's soft, memorable whistling, like an accompaniment to those noises that lived in the woods. Now, that was missing, too.

A partridge leaped up with a loud flutter of feathers from a dead, dried-up bush a few feet beside him, frightening him for an instant and he remembered the time he had shot his first grouse. Dad had been with him, then. A cottontail scurried noiselessly across the path in front of him. Then suddenly ahead loomed the huge, oak-tree trunk, the marker that indicated the creek was near; and presently he could hear it, a soft, broken sound, like distant thunder.

He walked past the huge trunk. He used to run at the spot, he remembered. He came to the sharp decline which was almost devoid of trees or brush all the way down to the creek some ten feet below. A long, slender log, rotted at one end and with pieces of bark chipped off it, lay nearby, held by stones wedged in underneath.

Kim carried his fishing equipment to the log and sat down. He glanced at the place beside him, the place formerly occupied by his father, and the loneliness hit him.

He opened his minnow pail and pulled out a small wriggling chub. He baited his hook with it, rose and stepped forward upon the bare, white rock, so close water splashed wetly upon his low shoes.

It was the trout he was after. The King, his dad had called it. That huge, green, orange-speckled fellow that was the biggest ever seen in the creek. His dad had caught it when he was on furlough several months ago, just before he was to be shipped overseas. He had held it out of the water for an instant while it thrashed and writhed at the end of the line, then lost it.

It had been his last furlough day, and he had to depart that night for camp. But he'd said: "Don't worry, Kim, with a persevering grin on his face. 'I'll be back one of these days, and I'll get the King. You wait and see.'"

"You bet, dad," he had answered. "I've got my money on you."

Now, that he wasn't coming back any more, Kim had decided he'd get the trout himself. He'd get it for his dad. Wherever he was, he'd be happy his son had fulfilled the desire he could not fulfill himself.

He swung the feather-weight, steel pole over his shoulder, and whipped it around as his dad had taught him. The reel whirled as the line snaked out over the ribbing, silvery water. He wished he had boots so he could wade out into the creek, but his dad had told him, "When you're older, son, and a little bigger, I'll get you boots. But you're rather small, yet. The water's strong and might throw you." So he'd stand on shore, anyway.

The bright, orange sun coming over the tree-tops on the other side touched his eyes and he pulled down on the brim of his straw hat. After awhile he felt a nibble; then another one. Tensed, he jerked on his pole. The line straightened, a fish leaped out of the water. His heart pounded. It was a trout, a nice-sized one, but not the King.

Saddened, he returned it to its creek-home. He had come after the King; that was all he wanted to take back with him.

Time crawled, and the leaf shadows on the shore moved outward into the creek, where it lost its shape in the rippling unstill water. Gradually, the sun moved across the ceiling of blue sky, behind patches of white clouds no two alike in shape. It beat warmly through his straw hat, and he felt a hunger that told him it must be dinner time—time to eat.

He lay his pole on the side and unwrapped the sandwiches his mother had prepared for him.

He remembered the pitiful expression she had on her lonely, oval face, in her big, gold-rimmed eyes that burned so much with tears when she had gotten the news...

He ate all but one sandwich. He'd eat that later.

He picked up his pole, baited it

LOOKING INTO A NEW WORLD—Quite curious about the world into which she has suddenly been born is this baby eland as she looks through the bars of her little corral in the Philadelphia Zoo. Mama Bessy Eland, who was shipped some years ago from South Africa, stands by at motherly attention.

with a fresh chub, and tried again. An hour and a half went by, and suddenly he felt a tug at the end of his line. He tensed, every muscle in his young, husky body straining, his fingers indolently vied gripped around the cork handle of the pole.

He waited with abated breath, and saw the end of the pole pulled down toward the water. It was the King Trout!

He jerked up on the pole. The middle bent into the shape of a scimitar, and the line tightened and quivered. He pulled harder. The line knifed through the water, then suddenly snapped out—empty!

"Missed him!" Kim exclaimed bitterly. His lips pursed, and he tightened his teeth. "But I'll get 'im! I gotta get 'im!"

The King had taken the minnow. Kim rebaited the hook, cast the line out again. He waited. The shadow grew longer, and a little wind began to stir. He started to feel a lost, sudden feeling in his stomach, a ache in his young, fast-beating heart. He ate the sandwich he had saved. And time went on—and he was getting hungry again.

Then suddenly he felt that pull it was strong—very strong. He jerked up on the pole. It curved sharply.

A fish leaped out, a great, big, green, speckled fish with a white belly! It thrashed wildly and angrily at the end of the line.

The King Trout!

His heart swelled. A smile beamed on his face. He swung the pole up vertically and caught the flopping trout in his small, strong hand. He carried it back from the water and pulled the hook, with the chub-bait still on it, out of its big, round mouth. Then, hanging on to it with all the strength he could muster he picked up the short cord on which to string the King.

And then—just then—he thought of his dad. Something queer came over him, a strange, peculiar feeling. He stared at the fish, and, as if from a distance, his father's words came to him, "Don't worry, Kim. I'll be back one of these days, and I'll get the King. You wait and see."

Wait and see! The words struck him, now, and he began to see things in a different light. He felt ashamed of himself, as if he had taken something that did not rightfully belong to him. And suddenly he knew that was it. The King did not belong to him...

Quietly, and unrestrainedly, he lifted the King high, and tossed it back into the creek. It squirmed like a huge, flat worm in the air, landed with a splash, and was gone.

Calmly, he picked up his fish pole, and minnow pail, and started up the bank for home.

Open Super-Railway In London

LONDON—London's new £1,000,000 ($4,000,000) "super-railway," a Western extension of the central underground line, was opened to passengers recently.

To eliminate noise the trains run over rails bolted and welded in continuous half-mile lengths instead of the usual 60 feet. At the end of the half-mile lengths there are special silent joints which eliminate jolts even there.

WOMAN COULD NOT LAUGH AT HERSELF

Charles Cole, Cartoonist, tells this story: "Making caricatures of women is particularly dangerous. That's why I will never do it if I can avoid it. Once I drew a frank caricature of quite a famous man, and his wife thought it so very funny that she pealed with laughter until he became really annoyed. He whispered 'Do one of her'—I did, and the lady has never spoken to me since."

Plans To Build Safer Automobile

PHILADELPHIA—Preston Tucker, president of the nation's newest auto manufacturing firm, said his plan to produce a "better and safer car" than has ever been built will provide jobs for approximately 455,000 throughout the nation.

"The youthful president of the Tucker Corp. told a Securities and Exchange Commission hearing his new enterprise eventually will have a pay roll of 35,000 at its plants in the Chicago area and 'ultimately we expect to have the largest pay roll in Chicago.'"

"We'll have 420,000 additional breadwinners throughout the nation as salesmen, dealers and suppliers," he told the Commission, which is investigating whether the corporation should be permitted to go ahead with his proposed $20,000,000 stock sale to the public.

At the conclusion of the two-day hearing, Mr. Tucker told a reporter "if the Commission lets us go ahead, I think the stock will sell."

"There has been enough interest shown already by the public to make me believe that," he added. "We will offer it for sale within seven or 10 days after the effective date."

MANY NEW POST OFFICES TO BE BUILT

OTTAWA.—Postmaster General Bertrand said in the Commons recently his department hoped to build "quite a lot" of post offices across the country next year.

Replying to questioning during study of his departmental estimates, he recalled that no new offices were built during the war years and said a considerable number now were needed. They would be built in centres where revenue totalled $10,000 a year or more.

Food Safe To Leave In Tins

Many doubts and prejudices still exist about food canned in tin cans, but home economists of the Consumer Section of the Department of Agriculture say such food will keep indefinitely just as long as the can doesn't leak. Rust or dents do not necessarily mean spoilage if the can is intact.

In addition, it is just as safe, and perhaps safer to keep canned foods in the can if it comes in, provided that the can is kept cool and covered. The inside of a can has been sterilized while the dish into which many housewives prefer turning their food, has newly been washed in the dishwasher. However whether food is stored in a can or container "always keep it cool and covered."

SWEETER TASTIER White Bread

RECIPE

Put 1 c. lukewarm water in bread bowl, add 1 envelope Royal Fast Rising Dry Yeast and 1 tsp. sugar, stir; let stand 10 min. Scald 2 c. milk, add 5 tsp. sugar; add 5 tsp. salt; cool to lukewarm. Add to yeast with 1 c. water and 6 c. sifted flour; beat well. 5 c. melted shortening and 6 c. more sifted flour, or enough to make easily handled dough. Knead dough quickly and lightly until smooth and elastic. Place dough in greased bowl, cover; set in warm place, free from draft. Let rise until doubled in bulk. Punch dough down in bowl; let rise again until about 3/4 as high as first rise. When light, divide into 4 equal portions; shape into balls. Cover with cloth; let rest 10 to 15 min. Shape into loaves; place in greased bread pan. Cover; let rise until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour. Bake in 425° F. oven for 15 min., then reduce heat to 375° F. Finish baking about 30 min. longer.

THE ANSWER TO CRISIS

"Pull Together Canada" Press Service
In a recent column the Associated Press foreign affairs analyst, Dewitt Mackenzie, wrote about "a widespread crisis in Europe to stimulate rehabilitation of moral and spiritual values". He made reference to The World Assembly of Moral Re-Armament which opened at Caux, Switzerland, last week.

In the opening address of this Assembly, Dr. Frank Buchman made some remarks that substantiated what Dewitt Mackenzie was writing about:

"All the world wants the answer.
We have reached the moment when,
unless we find the answer and bring it quickly to the world, not just one nation but all nations will be overwhelmed. Nations desire the fruits of the answer without having the answer. The problem is not just the iron curtain, which separates nation from nation, but the steel selfishness that separates man from man and all men from the government of God. When men listen to God and obey, steel and iron melt away."

Dr. Buchman pointed out that today men everywhere are waking up to the fact that, "Organized materialism has penetrated every nation, infiltrated their schools and industries, has invaded their offices and government departments, influenced their families, colleagues and even themselves."

"Moral Re-Armament," he said,
"has been answering plan with plan,
idea with idea, militant godless materialism with militant any-ist ideology for Democracy. Now it gives the glorious. Here at Caux we see this force in action. It is a force in the war of ideas with training and experience, which under God can equip the skatharian and the ordinary man with an ideology adequate to remake nations
now."

Citing the case of coal, Dr. Buch-man states that, while British cabinet ministers were deploring the lessening of national production, miners who had been trained at Caux and in the coalfields where the MRA drama,
"The Forgotten Factor" had been shown, there was a different picture.
In one mine, he said, the six-day target was reached in four and a half days. In another, the target was passed so often that the miners asked for it to be raised. In yet another, absence from work over a period of a year, had dropped from twenty percent to three percent.

"This is not a theory," he concluded, "but a way of life, tested and tried in every circumstance. It is a force that has the power to save and recreate a society on the brink of collapse.
Industry with this force of MRA at its heart will produce enough for the needs of all. Homes with this force in everyday life will secure the next generation from chaos. Armies with this force will give new standards of moral training to the nations. Cabinets and diplomats with this force will be totally effective for they will have the power to turn their enemies into friends. Europe will arise from this sleep and defeat of apathy and diffusion. This is the only possible hope for world reconstruction."

NEW YORK ARTISTS HEARD IN RECITAL

(Peter Bakaj)

On Friday evening, Coleman music lovers were given a rare treat when the Coleman Elks sponsored three New York artists in a two hour recital. The three artists were namely Miss Helen Lightner, lyric soprano of New York, Miss Lynn Hartman 13 year old violin prodigy of Tendon New Jersey, and Mary Bornoff who acted as accompanied.

Exalted Ruler Frank Kyncl
starting the programme with a few introductory remarks on behalf of the Coleman Elks. He stated that the Elks were proud of the opportunity enabling them to sponsor this trio of famous artists. He hoped that this recital would aid the young students of music to appreciate finer music and spur them to greater efforts in their studies.
Mr. Kyncl also remained upon the stage many vacant seats and regretted the fact that more people didn't take advantage of the opportunity to hear the recital. Mr. Kyncl then introduced Mr. Paul Baron former Colemanite and father of the accompanied. Mr. Baron expressed his pleasure in being in Coleman again, and then introduced each artist to the audience.

Miss Helen Lightner, the first artist to appear, charmed the audience with her interpretations of various selections ranging from operatic arias to the well known folk songs of the Ukrainian. Her amazingly beautiful voice combined with a pleasing personality brought overwhelming applause from the audience time and time again. Her answers were many and her choice of pieces was excellent.
Miss Lightner sang in six different languages, namely: English, French, German, Russian, Italian and Ukrainian, and her fine musicianship was appreciated to the utmost.

The second artist to appear was Miss Lynn Hartman, 13 year old violin prodigy. This young violinist proved herself to be a musician far beyond her years. Her mature playing was shown to great advantage by her well developed technique and excellent bowing. Her interpretation of some of the most difficult pieces in violin literature proved her to be the youthful virtuoso that she is.

Mary Baron Bornoff acted as accompanist for both artists and is credited with an excellent performance throughout. During the course of the evening the three artists performed as a trio on a few occasions, which added even greater charm to the already well balanced programme.

The writer would like to add here, that it is most unfortunate that this recital was not attended as well as it should have been. It should be realized that it is very rarely one gets an opportunity to hear artists who have gained fame and recognition in both Canada and the United States. For the benefit of those who have not seen these artists perform, I suggest that you tune in on CFBN at 8:30 p.m. Sunday, August 10th and you shall have the opportunity of hearing them.

DOORS, JUST DOORS

Sylvia Magazine

There have to be doors, all kinds of them—doors for the wolf to be at door for opportunity to knock in; doors for reformers to peep through the keyholes, and doors with nails for people to be as dead as. There must also,
of course, be doors for men with black eyes to have walking into. There must be doors for people who like being indoors and doors for people who like being outdoors. There must especially, be doors for the people who live next door. Living next door, if you have no door, is a hollow mockery.
There must be front doors for children to slam after they renounce their parent, and back doors for them to come creeping in by when they start getting hungry.

9,000 PEOPLE HURT IN WESTERN MOTOR CAR CRASHES LAST YEAR

More than 9,000 people were injured in motor accidents in the four western provinces last year, according to official figures compiled at Ottawa.

The number is regarded as alarming, calling for greater safety driving education on the part of all interested organizations.

The report also shows that 331 people were killed in motor accidents in the four western provinces in 1946.

In Alberta, there were 40 fatalities in motor accidents, the lowest of all western provinces. Saskatchewan had 65 persons killed in such accidents, Manitoba 79 and British Columbia the most with a total of 147.

Fix Speed Rate

In order to cope with the situation in this province the provincial government brought into effect on July 1st an order which establishes maximum rates of speed for all vehicles. Hitherto, the rate of speed on the highway was based on reasonable conditions prevailing at the time. This meant that a speed of 60 miles per hour for example, might have been within the law at a time when it was justified by the small amount of traffic on the highway, while on another occasion a rate of 50 miles might have been too fast owing to greater traffic volume and other factors.

Under the new order, the maximum rate for passenger cars and buses and all other road vehicles is 50 miles per hour. For motor trucks the top rate is 40 miles per hour. The provincial authorities believe that establishing of these maximum rates will have the effect of reducing the number of road accidents.

VICTORY SMILE—Here's South Africa's Bobby Locke and the Seagram Gold Cup, emblematic of Canadian golf supremacy, after Locke's victory takes the Seagram Gold Cup out of North America for the first time in history.

1,533 Were Injured

The Ottawa survey of motor vehicle accidents last year shows that in Alberta, 1,533 persons were injured. There was no estimate of the property loss.

In Saskatchewan, there were 1,700 persons injured and the property loss was put at $622,276. Manitoba had 1,858 persons injured and a property loss of $465,504 in 3,652 accidents. There was an increase of 1,441 over the number of accidents the previous year.

British Columbia reported 3,920 injured in an accident total of 9,792 and a property loss of $1,352,670.

Across Canada last year, 1,616 persons were killed in motor accidents and 50,576 injured, while property damage was estimated to exceed $11,000,000.

Toll In Provinces

There were 89 people killed in Nova Scotia, 65 in New Brunswick, 6 in Prince Edward Island, 437 in Quebec and 688 in Ontario. Quebec had 7,622 injured in 15,886 accidents.

In Ontario, there were 12,288 people injured. The number of accidents increased from 13,485 in 1945 to 17,356 last year.

On the basis of detailed studies of the reports from Nova Scotia's

New Brunswick, Ontario, Manitoba, and British Columbia, it was determined that drivers involved in fatal or otherwise most serious accidents were between 25 and 40 years of age, were experienced and were in normal physical condition. Most of the accidents took place on straight roads or at street intersections in daylight. The conclusion is that drivers responsible for these accidents were careless, inattentive, guilty of road-hogging or wilfully reckless—Voice of Motordom.

Life is an eternal struggle to keep one's earning capacity up to one's yearning capacity.

everywhere

WALTER R. A. BALMER, General Manager of a large Toronto furniture company. "After driving my new Oldsmobile 8 in winter weather and over roads unusually rough, I find you were very conservative in your recommendations for the 'Hydra-Matic Drive' is certainly the smoothest thing in mechanism that I have ever experienced. I am really proud of this car, and for driving comfort, ease of handling, and general road-worthiness, I can only say I'm glad I bought an Oldsmobile. I made the smart choice."

And that's just an excerpt from one of the many, many letters sent in by Oldsmobile owners—letters that repeat again and again, "There's nothing else like it in driving! It's smart looking... smart handling... and the new *CM Hydra-Matic Drive is the smartest way of driving yet devised."

Yes... people who choose Oldsmobile make the smart choice... for Oldsmobile is the smart buy of the year. To you who are waiting for your new Oldsmobile—our thanks for your patience... our salute to your wisdom. The demand for Oldsmobile with the new *CM Hydra-Matic Drive is so widespread that it still greatly exceeds the supply. Preparedness For Peace

IT HAS BEEN DISTRESSING to peace-loving people throughout the world to hear discussions in many quarters regarding the possibility of a third world war. Until the latter part of the summer of 1939 there still remained people in the democratic countries who were unable to believe that we were on the verge of war, and it is equally difficult now to accept the fact that another war may already be in the making. Whether this is the case or not, the fact is now almost universally acknowledged that world disarmament is not the key to world peace, and it is not likely that any powerful nation will ever again be unprepared against aggression as were Britain and the United States at the outbreak of the last war.

Many thoughtful people are now of the opinion that any nation which is well prepared for war is unlikely to be attacked, and certainly, as more and more is heard of the development of new methods of warfare, it would appear almost incredible that any nation should launch an attack, knowing the type of weapons which might be used in retaliation. Although the whole world fears the terrible results of atomic warfare, it may be that the atom bomb will be a means of preserving peace since any country would surely hesitate to use such weapons against an enemy who could retaliate in the same way.

Canada Will Do Her Share

In the Canadian House of Commons recently Hon. Brooke Claxton, Minister of National Defense, stated that if an international security force is established "Canada will assume her obligations along with other nations." Mr. Claxton spoke in Winnipeg, in the course of an inspection trip through Western Canada, and he reported that the navy and air force are up to strength and the army is about two-thirds of its full strength. The fact that Canadian armed forces are not being allowed to become disorganized, and that we are keeping abreast of the times in regard to the scientific aspect of war, does not mean that Canadians are preparing for another war. There is no place where war is regarded with more distaste than in this country, but the Canadian people have also realized the fact that being prepared in time of peace might be the means of averting future wars.

RECIPES

Frozen Lemon Crunch

- 2 tablespoons butter of mild flavored fat
- 2 cups corn flakes or all wheat flakes
- 3 tablespoons brown sugar
- ½ cup chopped nuts
- 3 eggs, separated
- ½ cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice

Melt butter in heavy frying pan. Crush cereal into fine crumbs; stir into melted butter with brown sugar and nuts. Cook, stirring constantly, until sugar melts and caramelizes slightly. Cool.

Beat egg yolks and sugar in top of double boiler until thick and creamy. Cook over hot water about 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Stir in lemon juice; cool.

Beat egg whites until stiff; fold in the cooled egg yolk mixture and whipped cream. Four into freezing tray which has been lined with waxed paper. Sprinkle crunch mixture over top. Freeze until firm. Cut in squares. Yield: 8 servings.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

CRITICISM

Criticism, as it was first instituted by Aristotle, was meant as a standard of judging well.—Johnson.

Justice to discriminate, firmly to establish, wisely to prescribe, and honestly to award—these are the true aims and objects of criticism.—Simms.

Criticism is the child and hand-maid of reflection. It works by censure, and censure implies a standard.—R. G. White.

You do not get a man's most effective criticism until you provoke him. Severe truth is expressed with some bitterness.—H. D. Thoreau.

What is mercurial censure? To make thy faults appear smaller? May-be to veil them? No, no! O'er them to raise thee on high.—Goethe.

Old Problem Will Never Be Solved

The Niagara Falls Review makes this comment: A writer in a British newspaper suggests that wives of ministers as well as the ministers themselves should be tested before a call is made to any church and it opens up an old and great problem.

We have known girls who have shied away from marrying ministers, though they liked the men themselves. They had seen what sometimes happens to ministers' wives. If they dress too well, it is subject of comment, if they don't they are dowdy. If they take a lead in church affairs, they are trying to run the church; if they don't they are criticized as lazy.

We have never been able to see why a minister's wife should be expected to carry half of her husband's load when, in other callings, he has to carry it himself. There are arguments on both sides, of course, for obviously, a vain and shallow woman, married to a minister may make his task more difficult, but, on the other hand, a minister's wife is entitled to some privacy and should be able to spend her time, like other women, in the big job of running her home and raising her family. We have known ministers' wives who kept their husbands up to scratch and the latter would have been of little good without them. It is a subject upon which there can and always will be wide discussion.

Children should never be forced to eat fat. With most of them it entirely disagrees, and does not digest, so that it is a natural instinct in them to dislike it.

FUNNY And OTHERWISE

The farmer's wife had a very sharp tongue, but one day he got a rest from her nagging. A farm horse kicked her so badly that she had to go to hospital for treatment.

During her absence there was an unusual run of callers at the farm. "It's very nice of the neighbors, especially the men, to call and ask after the missus," the farmer remarked to the servant-girl.

"Ay, sir," replied the girl; "but most of them want to know if you'd sell the horse."

Miss Vane: "Some one told me today that it was the handsomest girl in the street."

Miss Speltz: "Oh, that's not incumbent."

Miss Vane: "What do you mean?"

Miss Speltz: "Your habit of talking to yourself."

"I hear your cook has rather an amorous disposition."

"Yes, if she can't get up a flirtation with the milkman, she starts mashing the potatoes."

"I understand she's married a struggling young man."

"Yes, he struggled, but he couldn't get away."

"Sorry, miss," replied the conductor. "But don't you worry; you can pay me the twopence another time."

"But you may never see me again."

"Well, what's the odds?" he said, meaning to be pleasant. "It won't break my heart if I don't."

"That is a nice dog—is he intelligent?"

"Intelligent is not the word for him. Yesterday, when I went out I stood still and said to him, 'Fido, what have we forgotten?'"

"Did he run back and get it?"

"No, he sat down and scratched behind his ear. He was wondering what it could be."

A man was running along the Strand shouting at the top of his voice: "No! No! Certainly not!"

A policeman stopped him and said: "Here, you, what's the idea?"

"It's all right, officer," was the reply. "I'm a 'Yes' man on holiday."

Little Tommy was invited to have another piece of cake, but said, "No, thank you."

"You must be suffering from loss of appetite," said his aunt, but Tommy replied with a sigh: "No! I'm not of appetite; it's politeness I'm suffering from."

The taxi was a very ancient one and had taken a long time to reach its destination.

As the passenger paid his fare he remarked:

"How do you manage when your fare is in a desperate hurry?"

"Ah," said the driver, confidently. "I keep on changing me gears and 'onking me 'ooter.'"

MAN MAY LIVE 150 YEARS PREDICT TWO SCIENTISTS

RENSSELAER, N.Y. — Medical science is faced with the challenge to give man health so he can live to be 125 to 150 years, two scientists in research have concluded.

The combined statement was made by Dr. Theodore L. Klump, president of the Winthrop Chemical Co., and Dr. Maurice L. Tainter, director of the Sterling-Winthrop Research Institute.

"The success of our efforts to prolong existence to this supposed natural life span depends upon our ability to maintain the life line of blood supply to the body tissues," Dr. Klump said. "Few die from old age; they die prematurely from degenerative diseases."

"With advances already made and without the benefit of spectacular discoveries that might come from research laboratories, it has been optimistically predicted that there will not be less than 21,000,000 people 65 years or older in the United States in 1980."

VERY LARGE ORDER

The Kingston Whig-Standard says engineers are said to be working to eliminate everything which would distract automobile drivers. This strikes us as the largest order the engineers have ever undertaken, and it might eventually lead to built-in blinkers and ear-plugs for drivers, with handcuffs and gags for passengers.

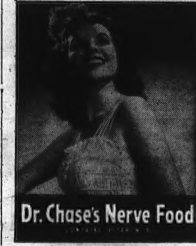

Paris Model Agency Lack Mannequins

PARIS—France is facing its most critical shortage yet — a dearth of beautiful girls.

That is the opinion of Marcel Reville, president of the largest Paris model agency, who is in a dither wondering where he will find enough beautiful girls to act as mannequins in the fall collections.

"Beautiful women simply don't exist in France any more," Reville sighed. "Out of every hundred I see, only one really qualifies for the job of fashion model."

FOR CHEVROLET

WHEN people are pleased it's natural for them to say "thank-you". But never, apparently, have any car owners been so pleased as those lucky enough to own a 1947 Chevrolet. Their enthusiastic "thank-you" letters stream in from every nook and cranny of the Dominion—from fleet operators and businessmen, from purchasers in every trade and occupation. And each letter says in a different way—"I know now from experience that Chevrolet's proud boast is true—only Chevrolet offers Big Car Quality at Low Cost!"
